Toll Bridge Opening Scheduled For August 1, 1953

Boyer Reveals Cresco Road To Be Rebuilt

Delaware Water Gap's new toll bridge and approaches will be opened next Aug. 1.

That was the date revealed yesterday to a meeting of Monroe County's township supervisors in session at the Court House.

There was some qualification, however: Russell E. Boyer, district engineer of the State Highway Department, Allentown, said the Aug. 1 date depended on availability of steel for the bridge, which is being built and financed by the Joint Toll Bridge Commission.

Boyer also told supervisors and other township officials at the annual convention of the Highway Department projects on the books for next year:

One—reconstruction of the highway from Route 615 near Blackwells Corner to Cresco, (with construction of a traffic overpass at the railroad cut at Cresco station scheduled for a later date).

Two—resurfacing of Route 209 between Stroudsburg and Scioti. (Shoulders on this stretch were widened in 1952).

Boyer held that the State Department of Highways needed more funds in order to build and operate. He went over improvements installed by the State already this year. The chief ones are the Route 611 project from Stroudsburg to Delaware Water Gap, and the bridge approach work.

Means by which townships could increase their income were discussed by H. A. Thomson, secretary of the association.

Among them: by authorization of Act 481, according to Thomson; levying of a one per cent tax on real estate transfers; a $10 tax on trailers used as residences; a $5 per capita tax and a 10 per cent tax on amusements.

Thomson went over the assessment legislation in the State, which allows five years to set up a permanent records system intended to equalize assessments throughout a county.

He predicted that if the program failed at the end of the five years, the State would take over all real estate assessing. Nearly two years have already gone by, he said, and urged local assessors to support the act in order to keep assessing on a local basis. (Monroe County has taken no steps as yet to establish a permanent records system.)

Thomson told supervisors and other township officials that they and appointed township personnel are eligible for social security under new legislation.

He went on to discuss distribution of highway funds to second and first class boroughs and cities under House Bill 145, which provides the money may be used only on roads and bridges.

Pennsylvania townships improved 1,200 miles of road at a total cost of $7 million this year as a result of this appropriation, he said.

Touching on auditors, he reminded listeners that township auditors are required to audit not only the accounts of supervisors and tax collectors but also those of justices of the peace who collect fines returned to the townships.

Thomson spoke against a two-cent Federal gas tax under which the Federal government collects $22 million yearly in Pennsylvania. Thomson said only $22 million of this sum is returned to the State.

Vincent Brady, the State Highway Department's township engineer, said the county spent $41,000 in county aid to townships this year, which brought the total aid by county and State to more than $100,000 spent this year.

Jack Anderson, assistant Civil Defense director, outlined plans for the coming C.D. test alert and exercise in the county at 10 p.m. Thursday.

Russell Werkheiser, Pocono Township, was reelected president of the association.

Others elected and reelected were: Wayne Price, Barrett, first vice-president; Cicero Frederick, Middle Smithfield, second vice-president; Edward C. Hess, Stroudsburg county engineer, secretary; Harold Albert, Stroud Township, treasurer; delegates to State convention, Werkheiser and Millard Price, of Barrett.

It was decided to hold the 1953 association convention—which will be the 47th—in November.

Rejects Appeal

Washington, D.C.—The Supreme Court yesterday turned a deaf ear to a contention that the Korean War is unconstitutional.

Township Supervisors Call For Stricter Enforcement Of Weight Limits On Trucks

Strict enforcement of weight limit laws on trucks was called a resolution containing the points listed.

Other resolution adopted by the group included these:

One—Any change in the existing method of distributing State aid for township roads be one based on the present Federal-aid formula of a third for area, a third for population and a third for road mileage.

Two—A law should make annexation of a portion of a township by a city or borough subject to approval by the voters of the entire township. (At present the vote is by residents in the part of the township wishing annexation.)

Three—The motor code should be amended to provide that all fines for violations be paid to the municipality or township in which arrest is made.

Four—Legislation should provide for "adequate bonds" for justices of the peace and should provide for monthly settlement of all fines due the township.

Five—The group endorsed the principle of a common municipal code, now being considered by the Pennsylvania Local Government Commission.

Other resolutions dealt with the establishing of a "cabinet status officer" in the State who would deal with local government affairs; equality with other local government levels under the amended Act 481, of 1947; and issuance of permits for encroachment on township roads by townships and not State officials.

They then moved for adoption of a resolution containing the points listed.

They also asked a new law under which large trucks would pay a weight-distance (ton mile) tax, like the one in New York, and resolved to combat any attempt to raise the load limit for trucks based on road mileage.

The move was voted at the annual meeting of the supervisors at the Court House and at the Penn-Stroud Hotel in Stroudsburg. About 60 were present. The group included other township officials besides supervisors.

The condition of local roads and bridges is "rapidly becoming more serious due to the constant increase in number and weights of big trucks," officials agreed.

Firemen Plan Drill Using Gas Masks

Portland — Thirty members of the Portland Fire Department will enter the fifth week of an 18-week course Wednesday night at the Mt. Bethel Fire House.

The firemen will don gas masks and enter a room where gas and smoke bombs will be set off. The firemen will enter two at a time and will retrieve some object from the room which will be cluttered with furniture to create conditions similar to that of a burning building.

At last week's course held in the Portland Hall, firemen viewed movies which demonstrated how to extinguish small fires in a building. The movies were shown and explained by George Butts of Stroudsburg, instructor of the courses. William Pensyl, fire chief, presided at the meeting.

The Portland Hook and Ladder Co. No. 1 is still receiving donations from the letter campaign for the new truck. It is not too late to donate as there is still an unpaid balance on the truck and all donations will be greatly appreciated by the firemen. It is possible that some may have mislaid or forgotten their letter for this cause so the firemen again urge all citizens to donate.

Ex-German Airman Relates Experiences In United States

Mount Pocono—The Mount Pocono Rotary held its first meeting at the Skyline Inn last night after having met at the Mount Pocono Methodist Church for the past six months. The move to Skyline was necessitated by the extensive building program currently being carried on at the church.

The speaker at last night's meeting was Dr. Guenther Stieneke, who told of his experiences leading up to his decision to become an American citizen. Dr. Stieneke had served in the German Air Force during the last war and had been a prisoner of war under the American Army. After his discharge he continued his studies at the University of Munich in Germany until he heard of a scholarship program being sponsored by the U. S. State Department.

After competitive examination results were announced, Stieneke found out that he had qualified for a year in the United States. Although told by the State Department that "there are no strings attached" the then 24-year-old German youth was hesitant about accepting and did so with great reserve.

"I actually was certain that I was going to be given a program of strict indoctrination in what the Americans called 'Democracy,'" Stieneke told the Rotarians, "and prepared myself for resisting it. Upon my arrival in New York in September, 1949, I was assigned to Syracuse, University where I spent the next nine months. Our group there numbered about twenty and we selected subjects that interested us most without any restrictions imposed. From registration day on I was on my Skyline Inn."

Civil Defense Councils To Receive Funds

The Monroe County Civil Defense office at the Court House has been informed by the State C. D. Council at Harrisburg that the federal matching fund appropriate for July 1, 1952, will be available for the fiscal year 1953.

Judge Fred W. Davis, C. D. director for Monroe County, announced yesterday that the amount allocated for the state of Pennsylvania is $1,024,560.

The funds may be used for warning device systems, educational information, training and education, health and special weapons defense, communications and fire and rescue services, it was pointed out by Jack Anderson, assistant county director.

No definite date the funds will be available was set, but could be any time after the first of the coming year. Anderson said, however, that all applications from the boroughs and townships must be handled through the county C. D. office.

Oil Pipeline Won't Touch Monroe County

Monroe County will not be touched by construction of a $2 million 75-mile petroleum pipeline next Spring, it was learned yesterday.

G. L. Robinson, an official of the Buckeye Pipeline Co. said from his Allentown office the proposed route starts near Allentown, at Macungie, and continues to DuPont, near Wilkes-Barre.

The line will cut through part of Northampton County at Danielsville, into Carbon County near Lehighton and pass into the Lackawanna-Luzerne Counties area.

Described as a "community" affair to service nearly all oil firms which do not now have pipeline facilities, the line is expected to serve such firms as Sinclair, Texas Oil, California Oil, Esso Standard, GLF, Richfield and Cities Service, with branches directed from the main stem.

The pipeline will be built by Northern Pipeline Co., a subsidiary of the Buckeye firm of New York and Ohio. The entire project, when completed, is a continuation of the line already constructed from Linden, N. J. to Macungie, and after

Water-Front Rackets

The story of the dock-side rackets in New York, now being pulled out bit by bit in hearings by a State Commission, is both sordid and frightening.

America's greatest harbor, according to credible testimony, has been in the grip of a criminal mob which levies tribute on every cargo, every longshoreman, every stevedoring company and even the shipping lines that use the port.

The ramifications of the racket are what make it so frightening. There are connections with the underworld's Murder, Inc., which was exposed to view several years ago. An AFL union, the International Longshoremen, figures in much of the testimony.

The take in this gigantic shakedown is estimated as high as $350 millions a year. For many cargoes, there is a five per cent extortion fee, and either that fee is paid, or the cargo can't be unloaded.

The racket even extends to foods, and the gangsters in control of the unloading of these perishable cargoes are said to have a lush field of operation. Pilfering from cargoes is an old and costly story in New York.

The men who do the actual work in loading and unloading ships are mere pawns of the gangsters. They kick back part of their wages, or they don't work. They keep their mouths shut about the gang's operations, or they incur the sure vengeance of the underworld.

Up to a point, this is New York's trouble, and we can persuade ourselves that our interest is only academic, and that we can leave New York to handle it.

But this racket is so big and so costly that it's costing all of us money. A considerable part of what we buy from abroad, and what we export, passes through the port of New York.

Any criminal organization that levies tribute on this rich trade also levies tribute on each of us. For the cost of the extortions inevitably get added to the price of the products.

That's our stake in New York's dock scandals. If the local and state authorities are unable to clean up the docks, the federal government should step in and see that this modern harbor piracy is wiped out permanently.

The Best Gift

Rationing in some countries and high prices in others make a real Christmas dinner out of the question for millions of families in other parts of the world this year.

Americans, who are better fed than ever before, can share their good fortune with a foreign family without any bother or red tape, thanks to the organization called "CARE."

This non-profit agency, formed in World War II as the Committee for American Remittances to Europe, will send food packages, ranging from canned whole turkey to plain cans of lard, to individuals in a dozen countries.

Neither the recipient nor the donor is required to pay a cent of duty.

The American who knows no foreign family but feels generous anyway may pay for a "CARE" package and the organization will see that it goes to a deserving home, with the donor's name and address on it.

That is the best kind of Christmas gift, and the best kind of diplomacy. The members of "CARE"—head office at 20 Broad St., New York—have done a great service by making it so easy.

The Once Over

—by H. I. Phillips

Ike and Doug Confer

Ike—Hello, General. Long time no HEAR.

Doug—Hello, I congratulate you on winning the election.

Ike—That's it! It makes it official. How are things at the Waldorf-Astoria?

Doug—I can't complain... even if you did better at the Commoditys.

Ike—What about your plan to end the Korean war, Doug?

Doug—I always had one.

Ike—Have you been holding out?

Doug—No. But I once revealed a Korean war plan to Harry Truman and lost my job. There is no telling what the punishment down there is for a second offense. He might even try to transfer me from Remington Hand.

Ike—The President thinks you owe the plan to him.

Doug—Nonsense. That would mean double jeopardy.

Ike—President Truman says you should have reported to him as soon as you returned from Korea.

Doug—When you get thrown out of a top-story window are you supposed to come back for an encore? I was in greater danger of ambush in Washington than I ever was in Asia.

Ike—in a way you got a better break from Harry than I did.

Doug—Yeah. Before giving me the works he didn't first assure me that nothing was too good for me!

Ike—Why did you announce you had this plan at a dinner of the Manufacture's Association? You don't make a plan for ending a street riot to a Kwanian club.

Doug—After what I got from the Democrats I wanted to talk only with an association that would have some Republicans in it. That's tactics. What's that snapping noise?

Ike—That's the ice between us thawing out. It's been a long time since we were this close.

Doug—I always felt you should have stuck with me in the Philippines, Ike. What made you leave me?

Ike—I thought I might find a bigger opportunity elsewhere.

Doug—Boy, were we RIGHT! I stuck to Asia and wound up making banquet speeches. You got out and landed in the White House. Fate has been kind to me.

POLITICAL NIGHTMARE DUE ABOUT JAN. 20

Truman's Economic Advisers Foresee Prosperity In 1953

Robert S. Allen Reports — By Robert S. Allen

Washington —

President Truman's Council of Economic Advisers has some mighty good news of President-elect Eisenhower.

The three experts foresee prosperous business conditions throughout next year.

That's what they say in their last annual report to President Truman.

He will make this study public next month. It will be one of the three messages he sends to Congress before leaving office on Jan. 20. The other two are the State of the Union message and the Economic Council makes several other highly significant predictions.

Profits after taxes for 1952 will be approximately the same as for record-breaking 1951. Earlier this year the general expectation was that profits would be less than last year.

Employment will hit a new record high of more than 62,400,000 by January 1, 1953.

A cut in defense and other government spending is the new budget may produce a business contraction in 1954, but it will be relatively minor."

The existence of a number of favorable factors is the reason the President's economists are so confident a recession would be limited both in scope and duration.

Chief of these factors are: To stimulate consumer buying in the event a slump develops, many industries are set to introduce new goods and products.

The prevalence throughout the country of a huge reservoir of much-needed public works, particularly hospitals, schools and roads.

Personal savings are at an all-time high and will powerfully cushion any business readjustment that may occur.

The Economic Advisers do forecast a continued decline in farm prices next year. However, this is not viewed as serious. It is believed this leveling off will be counted by other factors, such as a rise in the purchasing power of the farmer's dollar.

This optimistic tone is the most distinctive feature of the report.

Throughout, it is markedly bullish in tempo and outlook.

From the standpoint of the incoming Eisenhower regime, the survey couldn't be more cheering. It is a decidedly happy omen.

President Truman is using the bullish report as the basis for his State of the Union and Budget messages. Both will stress the prosperous condition of all segments of the economy—and will claim full credit for that for the Democratic party.

Note: During one talk with Eisenhower, Rhee hinted broadly he would like to come to the U.S. next year. He intimated that General MacArthur had promised him such an invitation. Eisenhower listened without comment.

Postoffices Expect Heaviest Christmas Mailing In History

Holiday Mail Rush Starts In Local Area

The heaviest Christmas mailing in history has been predicted by postmasters of Monroe County as additional carriers and clerks reported for work yesterday.

With three postoffices employing carriers, the remaining stations have boxes for their residents, and there too the mail to date, incoming and outgoing, is reaching great proportions.

Fred Rhodes, Stroudsburg's postmaster, said 28 persons have augmented the regular staff there and from 6 to 8 more will be used before Christmas.

Of the 28 now on duty 13 are working indoors as clerks and 15 are traversing borough streets as carriers.

In East Stroudsburg Norman Gregory, postmaster, indicated the season mailing will top all past performances, and at 2:30 p.m. yesterday the volume already exceeded that of the same day last year. The overall volume was reported 8,000 over 1951. Gregory also said the postoffice there will open from 7:30 a.m. to 7 p.m.

East Stroudsburg is using seven carriers and seven clerks and will increase the staff to a maximum of 25 before the rush ends.

Louis DePaul, postmaster at Mount Pocono, said three additional workers have been added to the staff and regular employees are working overtime to expedite delivery of the mail. Two men are serving as carriers and one is working indoors.

DePaul also announced the Mount Pocono office will be open until 6 p.m. Saturday, instead of closing at the noon hour.

All post office officials have urged the public to mail as early as possible to avoid a last-minute tie-up of delivery.

They also have asked that special cards provided by them be used in mailing. The cards, printed for local and out-of-town delivery, state the location of delivery in red and white type.

By separating mail for out-of-town and those for local delivery, the postmasters assure speedy delivery. All local mail delivered in the community where the postoffice at which the cards are deposited is located, is tied in bundles and the printed cards placed on top. The same procedure is to be followed on out-of-town mail. Rural deliveries from the postoffice where the packages or cards are mailed, also is considered local.

Town Meeting Votes Against Rent Controls

Bangor — This borough will protest against Federal rent control, council members decided last night.

The decision followed a town meeting attended by more than 100 landowners and tenants at the high school auditorium.

Council members were present, and a vote was taken. Some of the listeners declined to express themselves, and council members refrained from voting.

When the count was in, 35 landowners had voted against control while two tenants had voted for it.

Accordingly, council indicated it would send a formal protest to Washington, asking that Bangor rents be left free of controls.

As the representative of the Little Orchestra Society I would like to express our commendations to the Daily Record and particularly to Mr. Randolph for the splendid article that appeared in your paper last Tuesday regarding our recent concert.

For the pre-concert publicity of both the Daily Record and radio station WVPO we are most grateful.

Our players agree with the expressed thoughts of Mr. Randolph that fine music should be source of first hand enjoyment for many more residents of Monroe County. We are attempting to provide this music under the capable baton of Mr. Thomas Knepp so more Monroe County residents may avail themselves of fine legitimate music.

Your sincerely,

Delay Prevents Induction Of 26 Draftees

A delay in receiving results of pre-induction examinations from the Wilkes-Barre induction station halted the call to service of some 26 draftees from the Stroudsburg Selective Service board last week. It was announced yesterday.

According to an official of the Wilkes-Barre station, Stroudsburg and Milford boards were unable to send inductees because of the requirement in time giving draftees 21 days notice prior to induction. Milford was scheduled to send six men.

The official said the Wilkes-Barre induction point operated short-handed when pre-induction tests were taken and got behind in paper work. Since then, he said, the staff has been increased and the induction station is reported to be adequately staffed.

East Stroudsburg High's clash with Bangor today, on the latter's home court, will be a Lehigh-Northampton League basketball tussle that will be viewed with more than a passing interest, as followers of the Mountaineers would like to get a line on the Cavaliers by comparative scores. Bangor swept both its pre-season cage meetings with Stroudsburg and now it's East Stroudsburg's turn to try its luck against the vastly improved Slates. Coach John Heard has done a fine job in his few years at the Bangor basketball helm.

Frank Mineh, an assistant golf pro at Shawnee-on-Delaware and a winter resident of Sacramento, Calif., is reportedly very much in the running for the Lehigh Valley Country Club's head pro position, a post vacated by the veteran Pat Browne recently. Frank, who gave a fine talk to the Stroudsburg High golf club, is one of the soundest young golfers in the business, both on the fairways and in the club house. This writer is only one of many people rooting for Frank to make the grade at the Lehigh Valley club.

Mike Lisicki, well known basketball and football official in this area and baseball coach at Northampton High school, was the field judge in Sunday's National Professional League football game between the Philadelphia Eagles and Washington Redskins, a contest that featured the Redskins in the part of a spoiler, as the Eagles were knocked out of a final tie for the American Conference with the Cleveland Browns. Washington won by a 27-21 score. Lisicki worked the East Stroudsburg State Teachers College-Millersville basketball game the Saturday before last, in the Normal Hill gymnasium.

Lou Pallazzi, former Penn State football star who was one of the officials in the basketball game between Greene-Dreher-Sterling and Pocono High last Friday, in Newfoundland. Pallazzi also played center for the New York Giants, of the National Pro League, for three full seasons. Nestor Chylak, an International League umpire, also officiates basketball games played in the Wayne County Conference. The presence of these two gentlemen in action should aid the Wayne County boys' cause, as far as attendance is concerned.

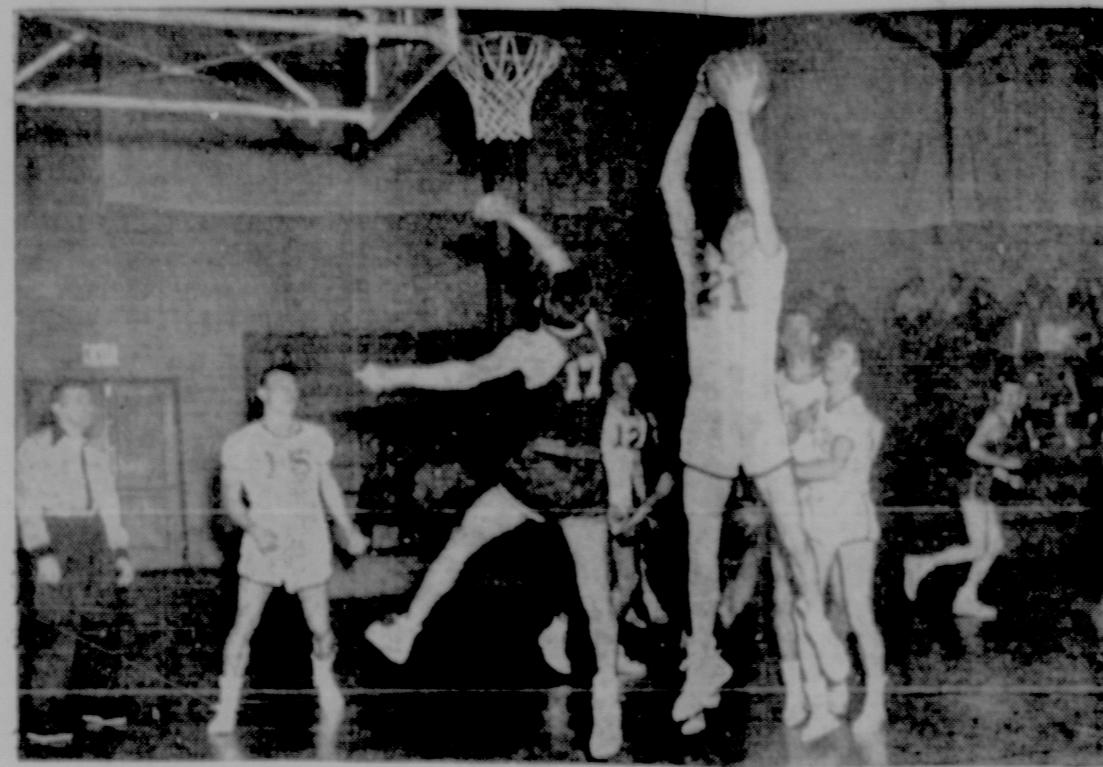

George Lalli, coach of basketball at Greene-Dreher-Sterling High two years ago, while regular mentor Henry "Hank" Arneberg was on a leave of absence, made his American Professional Basketball League officiating debut at Wilkes-Barre the other night. The second official in the same game was "Red Ed" Cyleman, ex-University of Scranton coach, who became Lackawanna County Preceptor. Moscow High, member of the Wayne County Conference, is drawing rave basketball notices at this early date after four straight wins including nods over such powers as Clarks Summit and Olyphant.

The great early season play of the Moscow quintet reportedly comes as no surprise to Coach Jimmy Aiken, the former pitcher, who's been working hard with his pupils. Fred Hansen, new manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, was once a member of the Syracuse roster, when Ernest "Duke" Landgraf managed and owned the Syracuse franchise in the International League, back in the early 1920s. Landgraf is known to baseball fans in this area as president of the class "D" North Atlantic League, before the circuit stopped operations.

Returning to the Redskins-Eagles grid contest for a moment, it might be good to pass on the word that Lisicki worked with Charlie Berry, an old friend and a resident of Phillipsburg, N. J. Charley, who is a major league umpire, is a regular official in the National Pro League too. Coach Dick Forster's choice of Joe Chase to serve as basketball captain is to be complimented. Joe is one of the hardest and most serious workers this scribe has seen in the local athletic setup in the past six years. Chase also plays football for East Stroudsburg High.

The annual Single and Doubles Bowling Tournament, backed by the Monroe County Bowling Association, will feature a much smaller field this year than it did 12 months ago. Although last Sunday was set as the deadline for entering the tournament, those interested in bowling in the tournament this year may do so by registering at any bowling alley in Monroe County. According to reports the cooperation isn't what it has been in the past. The tournament will be rolled at both the Pocono Bowling Center and Harmon's Recreation.

Those that follow Lehighton High sports closely believe that the Indians may feature their best basketball team in history this year. Coach George Biebigaus has two strong arguments along this line, the husky, 36-year-old Negro intends to make the most of it. He's trained harder and longer for this 15-round than for any other scrap in his 16-year pro career. Roth hit the cords for 454 points last year and 97 thus far this season.

East Stroudsburg Teachers Edge Ithaca Foe, 64-62

Gutshall Wins Blue Mountain Batting Title

Bangor—Howard "Howie" Gutshall, slugging combination outfielder-first baseman for Tatamy, won the 1952 Blue Mountain Baseball League batting title with a .438 average, according to figures released last night by Armon Williams, secretary of the circuit.

Mike Renaldo, first sacker for Roseto, was only one point off the pace with a .437 mark, while third place went to Portland's veteran flierchaser, Randal "Bish" Ott, with a .427 tabulation.

Bob Schick, an outfielder, was the number one sticker on the Pocono A. C. club with a .312 mark, while Dick Schaller, with a .296 average, was number two on the Stroudsburg-East Stroudsburg club. Other members of the Pocono A. C. contingent, near the top of the barrel, were Bill Frear, .289; Don Sweda, .285 and Bill Frack, .279.

The number four hitter in the circuit was Bob Meliman, Roseto player and East Stroudsburg State Teachers College student, who finished with a .386 average.

Others

Other highly regarded plate averages in the Blue Mountain League were: Frank Stanczak, East Bangor, .373; Dick Pritchard, Roseto, .363; Bill Wessner, Tatamy, .336; Al Sharp, Portland, .360; Bob Trippaneri, Portland, .360; Vince DeFranco, Roseto, .338; Art Osmun, Portland, .330; Fred Seigfried, Tatamy, .320; Bob Miller, Stockertown, .311; Art Stasiak, Tatamy, .305; Tony Valetta, West Bangor, .300; Art Rissmiller, Portland, .293; "Bus" Lepine, Portland, .289; Harold "Hair" Staples, Portland, .287; John Pezzuto, West Bangor, .287; and Don Carbone, West Bangor, .286.

George Jackson, Portland, was the only pitcher in the league with a perfect mark, as the big right-hander posted six wins and didn't suffer a setback. Teammate Bill "Lefty" Greenamoyer came up with seven victories but was charged with two setbacks.

John Schoonover, manager of Pocono A. C., was the best hurler on his club with four victories and one loss loss.

The excuse to rebuild the team because of two losses is the most simpleminded thing I've ever heard of. If you've heard any of Mr. Secor's tall tales for football games you'll know what I'm talking about.

First of all any coach that doesn't have enough faith in the fellows he has picked for the team shouldn't even try to coach any team of any kind.

Charles Puts End To Buford In Seventh Round At Boston

Boston (UPI)—Ex-World Heavyweight Champion Ezzard Charles of Cincinnati scored a technical knockout over young Franklin Buford of Oakland, Calif., last night in 2:13 of the seventh round of their scheduled 10-round in Boston Garden.

Charles had dropped Buford for a four-count with a two-fisted attack in the sixth and then referee Joe Zapustas stopped it after a straight right to the jaw felled Buford for eight in the next session. Charles weighed 187 to Buford's 202.

Charles slammed both hands to Buford's head in the seventh and then shot a smashing straight right that landed flush on the Californian's jaw.

Buford struggled to his feet at the count of eight, but Zapustas stopped the one-sided battle as one of Buford's handers—Nuno Cam—tossed in a towel to indicate that Buford had taken enough punishment.

Charles slammed both hands to Buford's head in the seventh and then shot a smashing straight right that landed flush on the Californian's jaw.

The 21-year-old Buford—whose most notable ring feat was a verdict over Clarence Henry for the California heavyweight title—was on the defensive most of the way, but Charles was unimpressive as he tried to attack in the second round.

The 31-year-old former champion had Buford's nose and mouth bleeding in the third round and stung him with a half dozen hard right hands in the fourth.

The crowd of 5,095 was stamping its feet for action in the fifth session, which like all the others was Charles' handiwork. In the sixth, Charles started to show his advertised new slugging style.

In that session Charles bashed both hands to Buford's head and body and dropped him in a corner for a four-count interrupted by the bell as Buford knelt with his gloves on the canvas.

Buford struggled to his feet at the count of eight, but Zapustas stopped the one-sided battle as one of Buford's handers—Nuno Cam—tossed in a towel to indicate that Buford had taken enough punishment.

Charles slammed both hands to Buford's head in the seventh and then shot a smashing straight right that landed flush on the Californian's jaw.

The 21-year-old Buford—whose most notable ring feat was a verdict over Clarence Henry for the California heavyweight title—was on the defensive most of the way, but Charles was unimpressive as he tried to attack in the second round.

The 31-year-old former champion had Buford's nose and mouth bleeding in the third round and stung him with a half dozen hard right hands in the fourth.

The crowd of 5,095 was stamping its feet for action in the fifth session, which like all the others was Charles' handiwork. In the sixth, Charles started to show his advertised new slugging style.

In that session Charles bashed both hands to Buford's head and body and dropped him in a corner for a four-count interrupted by the bell as Buford knelt with his gloves on the canvas.
